

JACOB N. COGLEY, AIAS

Lighting Designer I

Experience:

Jacob Cogley joined The Lighting Practice in 2016 while still a student at Drexel University. After graduating with a Bachelor of Architecture degree he decided to continue his career in lighting design. Jacob's interest in lighting was sparked by his love of architecture. He believes light has a significant impact on how architecture is perceived. Since joining TLP, Jacob has expanded his project experience to include retail, healthcare, and hospitality environments.

Education:

Bachelor of Architecture, Drexel University
