

DREW HOPKINS

Lighting Designer I

Experience:

Drew Hopkins joined The Lighting Practice in 2021 as a Lighting Designer I. After graduating from Bucknell University with a degree in Technical Theatre and Political Science, he pursued a career as a freelance theatrical lighting designer. Drew's background illuminating live performances for theater and concert venues broadened his understanding of light's impact on a space and its ability to influence human perception. His hands-on experience with coordinating DMX controls and color changing lighting fixtures has made him a valuable addition to the team. Since joining TLP, Drew's project experience has grown to include healthcare, academic, and places of worship.

Education:

Bachelor of Art in Technical Theatre and Political Science, Bucknell University
