EXPERIENCE

Henry joined The Lighting Practice in 2026 as a Lighting Designer I. Prior to joining TLP, he worked as a theatrical lighting designer, programmer, and technician for over three years, primarily on plays and musicals. He discovered his passion for lighting in his high school theatre department and continued to develop his skills and appreciation for the craft in college. Through this experience, Henry developed a strong understanding of how light can tell a story, evoke emotion, and define a space. His transition from theatre to architectural lighting design was driven by a desire to continue working with light in a new context while applying his creative and technical background. Outside of work, Henry enjoys reading, spending time in nature, playing piano, and bartending for friends.
